your story matters

Choosing Your Photography Collection

Well done on booking your family shoot. You might be brand new to this experience, or it's been a while since you updated your family archive. Either way we promise to look after you. Your story matters and you deserve to have it told in the right way for you.

All good stories are authentic and so getting to know you is at the heart of all we do. Each family is unique so we have created a variety of photography collections we know work well for different families and different homes.

Our job is to help you get the photographs you'll love, of the people you love, presented in the style you love, for your home. That way you'll get the bespoke artwork for your home that you've always dreamt of.

Please use this guide to inspire you in advance of your photoshoot so we can understand what you'd love to create. Simply put, then we all know what we're shooting for.

We can't wait to see your story come together.

Big Blue Sky love

Treasure Box Collection

Treasure Boxes are the perfect solution for limited wall space, or as a companion piece to wall art to enjoy more of your photographs everyday. All of your prints come fully mounted and are designed to be displayed within the box.

You can choose to order individual mounted prints, create a bundle, or opt for the treasure box. The beauty is you can add to this, or create multiple treasure boxes as your family grows and changes throughout the years.

Individual mounted prints (14"x11")	£200
Bundle of 5 mounted prints	£900
Treasure box including 10 mounted prints	£1600

Frame Collections

We love hearing about the spaces in your home you're going to fill with your very own family wall art. If you can, send us images in advance of your home, so we can see colours and styles. It all helps in creating photography that speaks volume of you as a family.

When it comes to frames there are lots of different ways to hang them (all together on a wall or a shelf, above the sofa, on the stairs...) Endless options mean endless variety. To help with this we've created some of our client's most popular selections into collections. Be inspired and know that anything is possible – you just need to let us know the space you're aiming to fill.
